

ABSTRACT

A fastening apparatus for use with a closure means, including a latch configured to receive a catch that is attached to a closure means, characterised in that the latch includes a lever attached to a release mechanism for the fastening apparatus wherein the lever
5 extends outwards from the closure means when the closure means is held in the open position.